The Word of God

… Oh, beloved son of nowadays, come back to the beginning of God's law and read, as God is taking care to give sense to his servant, and you alone will see the bad path, and if you are on it, you will step aside and will sigh and mourn and will meet the One who carries on his head the crown, and he will comfort you and make you straight, for look, nothing will be spoken with these words any more, as it was spoken much, and much have I sent this word ahead of you, for no prophet had received as much as you have received today, and look, that if the Lord is not succeeding with you, the stones will speak against you; for nothing will help you to avoid this storm which is coming over this world, for the Lord has come to be a support and a defense shield for you. Listen My people and love nothing more than God. Do not love the one who leads you away from his word, from the Lord, and you will wonder when the Lord, Jesus Christ is coming from heaven on earth for all and for everything. And as there is still time until they are separated, look that the Lord, because of the mercy for his people has shortened this time, and it will come sooner. God cannot suffer any more what the world is doing today. Only the animals remained with their God. No one built you but Me. This is how I cried to My Son: «This is the One through whom I wanted well!» This is how God will be crying in front of this world*: "This is My working through which I worked."*
