

The Word of God on the second Sunday after Passover, of the saint apostle Thomas
(Excerpt)

... Man, take and eat of My table with My people! That is why I have made Me a people out of your midst. I have made a people to speak with it about those that are from heaven on earth and so that you may also hear My speaking with My people, man on the run. Oh, do not run away from Me! You had better run away from death and from all your possessions, but do not run away from Me, oh, do no longer run but rather come closer and receive. Come, as I am calling you to a table of feast, and I have invited you to come for free! Come to give you freely! Come as there were coming in thousands those who saw My glory by which I was working into the midst of Israel two thousand years ago. Two thousand years have passed over you since My coming, since My resurrection, man called at the table of resurrection, at the table of mercy and salvation and of My eternity with man. Now your time has elapsed and My time has come, that which has no end. Now it begins My life on earth with man and in man. Now there has come the resurrection of the dead and you do not see, man confined in ignorance. Oh, where is your knowledge that you stole from God, man?

Even from the beginning man has not listened to Me; he started to oppose Me from the very beginning and pulled himself out from Me. Since then, I have been working every way possible to give repentance to man, to make him look for Me, to wait for Me and to want Me to come upon him again by his obedience to God, but man has no longer started to listen to Me. Nevertheless, I had kept on calling him out until I Myself came to meet him, but man did not know that it was I; he took and brought Me on the hill of Golgotha and nailed Me to the cross as a liar who pretended to be God. Oh, it would have been better to nail himself on the cross, but he was and is blind and sees nothing as he is locked in ignorance and does not know. However, I had told him by the prophets so that he could know from them; I had told him that I would come from the Father to redeem him from his self and to put him within Me. Still, he did not know that and when I came, he took Me and nailed Me on the cross and then I paid the price for man's life by My death, and I wanted to call him to life by My resurrection. Still, man did not want this. He has not come back to Me. Man has not set himself to live the eternal life. Now, I have set on earth the throne of judgment, (See the selection topic: „The fearful judgment¹”, r.n.) and I am flowing out of it with the word that cleanses, and I am showing the work of justice to man. My word is a river of fire, which cleanses man with its love, with its warmth, with its flame that washes the man to his bones, to his utmost inner things.

... I have set the example of seven thousand years of resurrection before man: the tree, the flower and the grass, which come to life again and again on earth calling man to resurrection each time. Then I came, I was resurrected and I called man again to resurrection.

Now, I am bringing on earth the resurrection of the dead to call to resurrection the one who stays as dead on earth, dead for the Lord. I have set you as an example of the resurrection before men, sons set under the mystery of My word that calls every man to resurrection. I have set you and not one pays attention to it. When I called Lazarus out of his tomb to life, the hearts of the stick-necked of that time were not torn, and they wanted to kill the Lord of life, Who came to raise the dead. And the same is today, the hearts of the stick-necked are not torn and all “play the fool priest” and it is done by those who do not have knowledge concerning to My coming with the word on earth, with respect to the calling of the nations to resurrection. They are the thieves who have taken control over the earth and over man in such a way that I may have no share on earth, but behold, I have come as the heir of the earth and I have come after man. I have come to reason with man for earth and for man. I have come after two thousand years to ask man what he has done after I died on the cross for him and after I came to life for him, for him to take of the mystery of the resurrection, to take from the mystery of the eternal life, and then to live by it. I have come, and I am bringing the man before Me to give Me this answer. Amen. And I have also set you to help Me to come after man, sons whom I have brought at the mouth of the river of fire, which is flowing from My mouth over the earth, to clean man with his love, with his justice. I have called you to be the witness of My word before men. Amen. I am the word that is coming to you. It is the robe that covers Me when I come. It is not only My word that is coming. I am coming too, and I coming as well, and before Me My word is going and you too as a sign of My coming; you with My life in you; you, with your love for the One Who is coming again after two thousands of years of waiting. Amen.
