The Word of God at The feast of the St. Elijah, the prophet

It is a day of heavenly feast over the garden of the Holy of Holies of the New Jerusalem, which came into being by the work of the word of God on the land of Romania. It is a day of holy and chosen feast, together with other feasts with the heaven over the Lord's establishment from you. The Lord proclaims His word over His manger, on His holy mountain in your time.

Peace to you! I work from My holy mountain by the word! Peace to you, My children, My brothers, My friends, My loved ones, and of My Father, and of the heavenly heaven! Peace to you and celebration from you, as those that are from heaven took their place, hosts by hosts and rows by rows, over the garden of the heavenly celebrations established at you by the word of God. The great forerunner of the glory, which is coming after him, the great Elijah, the prophet, going in front of the hosts of glory, takes a heavenly tour and rejoices over the way prepared for Me and over the manger decorated for Me by you; he rejoices over the time of his work and hurries to fulfill his work of preparation for the appearance of the Lord, Jesus Christ, over His vineyard.

Oh, but Romania is guided by the protection of the My too Clean Mother, and the prophet Elijah works upon Romania together with My Little Mother; and he is united with Verginica into his work, as Verginica has the passing of those days, My loved ones, and each one, until creation, stays in front of his host and looks, because now it is being prepared the fullness of the godly works over the creature, and the glory that is prophesied in the Scriptures about is being prepared for the appearance of the new age of the Lord and of the Lord's creature; that one from everlasting to everlasting. That is why God came down with this piece of work and behold, now, with this garden on earth, to work out the beginning of the new age, that is written in Scriptures about; and it is written about the work that the great prophet Elijah has, through the sons of this work which is from heaven with you. May his work with you be blessed; and My path among the people of the earth be well seen; and My glory will pass on this path from place to place, and it will bring with it and it will make the new age, of the heaven and of the heavenly and incorruptible earth, as this is what I said: «I make new heavens and a new earth, in which justice, peace and life will dwell». Amen.

The time is coming, children, that the world may see the Lord, as this is written, and My words will be seen coming true and all will be fulfilled, and behold, that is why I worked through you this place of coming down of My word and of the glory of My word, so that I may have a path of coming down and that the world may not say that it did not hear the voice of this trumpet call, which called from heaven for the urge to the resurrection and to a new life over the creature. And following the trumpet, the chariot of the prophet Elijah and his horses work, as it is written, and this chariot comes to gather everything that is spoiled and dry in the way, so that the way may be smooth, and that it may be shown the glory of God's path, Who is coming again; and let it be heard over you and over the multitudes the voice of the prophet which says: «Behold, the Lord is coming with His thousands of saints!» and every eye will see this glory. Amen.

My loved children, this is the work that the Lord nestled in your garden, the work of the preparation of the glory, which is coming with Me over the creatures. You are workers hired by the heaven, and you are blessed because of this hire, as you left land, houses, kindred, father and mother, brothers, and you let yourselves be hired into My vineyard. I am the vineyard and you are the branches and we will drink and eat at the autumn table, as the summer is coming to an end and the table of the blessed autumn is coming near when all the fruit that we labored for will be gathered and put on the table. And wine of a new vineyard will be on the table, as the wine will be new, My dear, and the old wine will be turned into water, as this is how it is when it is tried to put water into wine or when it is tried to turn the water into wine. Oh, with God this is not possible; this kind of wine has no room before God. And there will be a new, clean and not mixed wine that is worked with toil; and for this, I, the Lord, will give it a new, good and heavenly taste, so that the weary may have and I will give them so that they may have. And we will stay on this celebration of the new vineyard and new wine, of the new heaven and new earth, as everything will become new and not perishable. Amen.

The great prophet Elijah is celebrated to you, he who has received this work of preparation of the path of God's glory, Who is coming again. Behold, both you and he, bring glory and gratitude to one another on this day. He will touch you with the staff of the blessing and with the waistcoat of the power and he will mark you as workers of the time of the glory of God's work. The saints work with you, and you work with them, and behold the heaven and the earth is working so that the new age, established and not perishable, may be seen. And the Lord will show Himself again, and He will be beside His fleshly creature, that is in the Spirit of the Lord and that works in the Spirit of the Lord.

Oh, how great it might have been the glory of this people, gathered by the word of this work, gathered from swamps and mire, from thorns and narrows, from mountains and valleys; how great the glory of Israel (Romanian Israel, r.n.) could have been if it had chosen the Lord and forsaken his idols! The earth would have been full of rivers, gifts, light, salt and of My word that had always been given. I have been standing in front of this people for forty years, as I had stood in the time of Moses until we got to Jordan. And where are the people, so that we may pass now singing and that the new earth may be shown? But where are those that were born on the way? And behold, these will be born in one day and the Lord will have His people and put it into Eden, for I will show them the life in Eden, and they will leave the death and will be born from heaven; and the Lord will have a people and will bring it to the spring to drink from the law of the holiness, and it will know God.

Verginica is great on the celebration of this day. She works upon you together with the prophet Elijah and with the apostle, who proclaimed the new time. Verginica touches you and brings you gratitude for your work with the heaven and clothes you with the garment of the heavenly power, so that you may finish the work of godly glory, which will be shown near you.

Verginica is looking to see her people. She looks again and again, and finds the people on the ladder and sees that they do not know to climb up the steps, and Verginica wants to talk with her people. Blow the trumpet so that the people may hear and that Verginica may speak over her people and tell them to start climbing the ladder, as she is reclining to give her hand to each one in order to help them pass their climbing. Let it be proclaimed a day of meeting with Verginica's word, and let the people stay and listen as in the days of old. Let them gather together, two by two, three by three, in each town, and carry away her last proclamation. And then the Lord will have to share a word upon the crowds, and behold, the spirit of the heavenly peace and of the power of peace wraps you up, you children of My word, so that I may come to you with the thing that I had to work. Let the spirit of My peace be in you. Let there be the sharpness of the Holy Spirit, the one that is teaching in you and upon you, as those that stay working in the Holy Spirit of godly revelations are blessed. Clear out from you everything that is foreign to the Holy Spirit, for the Holy Spirit is in heaven, in those that are from heaven. The heaven is the dwelling of the Holy Spirit. Be a heavenly. Be a heavenly dwelling of the Holy Spirit; be a house of humility, My dear, as this is the house of the Holy Spirit. Love the glory, which is coming from the work of humility and do not love the fruit of another kind of glory, as such a glory will not remain into the new age.

I said and I say to you again: do not allow the evil spirit make a nest among you, and break down each time the nest of the evil spirit foreign to God. Do not be tolerant with the face of the evil spirit. Do not look at the face and search out the spirit; search the Holy Spirit with your sight, and let those that are covered be uncovered and visible, and this way you should work. The hidden work is called darkness among you. Work everything in the light so that it may be searched out the work of each one of you, to see if it is or not like the Holy Spirit. Give an uncovered light to one another, for those that are good are uncovered through them, but those that are evil are also discovered through them as well, for here with you everything is worked out in the light, as My light, which works to bring into view all those that are worked, brings all hidden things into view. Be sons of the light, which works with you and which comes upon the earth to give light from heaven.

May the feast of the St. prophet Elijah be blessed upon you! May a heavenly greeting of joy be upon you! The little angels of the glory lift up their trumpets and call the song of this celebration, for the heaven is in great joy in its celebrations until the establishment of the eternal celebration, in which the songs of the heavenly glory will never end; the songs of the new, heavenly and eternal age.

May your praise song and the food of joy of today's feast be blessed! May you be blessed, children of the heavenly blessings, which start with you. Amen, amen, amen.
